Birdie Tebbetts, now executive vice president of the Milwaukee Braves, recalled his winters spent in Graying in a letter recently to Al Orin, editor of the Roscommon Rotary Club's news. Birdie after reading the following note in the Rotary Club news: (Phil Orin mentioned in the news and in the Milwaukee Rotary Club is a member of the Milwaukee Rotary Club and spends a two weeks vacation each year at Higgins Lake and at that time attends the Roscommon Rotary Club meetings.)

Mr. Al Cherven Postmaster Roscommon, Michigan

Dear Al: I saw Phil Orin at the airport and he mentioned having visited with you and also sent me a copy of the Roscommon Rotary Club News. Needless to say I was delighted to read your comments and to hear that there were no hard feelings even though I threw you out of a basketball game. Believe me, of all the parties I have attended, the surprise party which you mentioned for my mother and sister in Graying was one of the most memorable. We still have pictures of that group in a scrapbook at home. If you will recall, they presented my mother with a picture scrapbook of the affair.

PROGRESS OF MICHIGAN'S 1,066 MILE INTERSTATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Michigan's 1,066-mile National Interstate Highway System is moving into high gear under Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie's present $1.4 billion five-year (1957-1962) construction program. This program calls for 580 miles of new Interstate Highway routes — more than half of the state's ultimate 1,066 miles. Already 208 miles of Interstate routes are open in Michigan and another 498 are under construction. Major highway news will be made this year when the approximately 220-mile long Interstate route 94 — from Detroit to the Indiana border south of Stevensville — is expected to be entirely under contract.

Democrats Start State-Wide Battle For Reapportionment Of Legislature

DEMOCRATS ARE STARTING another statewide fight for reapportionment of the Legislature. The Democratic State Central Committee June 28 decided to form a committee to plan for reapportionment, a drive that has new significance for Democrats because of the 1959 deadline in the Legislature over state finances.

The State Central Committee acted after party members in the 14th Congressional district adopted a statement blaming the legislative stalemate on "the undemocratic reapportionment system which permits Republicans to subvert the needs of the state to satisfy their own and their party's selfish ends."

Democrats claim areas for the Senate, a Republican stronghold by a 22-12 margin, are gerrymandered to Republican advantage. The State Senate seats were put into the constitution in 1952 by voters.

Democrats are expected to circulate petitions to put the reapportionment issue on the ballot. It would take signatures totaling 10 per cent of the votes cast for governor in the last election. This would be 231,218 based on the Nov. 4, 1959 turnout.

There is little chance for Democrats to get the issue on the ballot through legislative action. It would require a two-thirds vote of both houses to submit the issue to the people.

Senate Democratic Leader Harold Ryan, Detroit, said the proposal "wouldn't get to first base" in the Senate.

Democratic unhappiness with the present district lineup in the Senate was behind their refusal to endorse the proposal for constitutional revision that was on the ballot in November. Delegates for the constitutional convention would be elected from present State districts.

Some Democrats would like to see outright abolishment of the Senate and creation of a unicameral Legislature.

A more likely proposal would be for the addition of seats that would be nominated by parties and elected at-large.

Democrats say the addition of at-large lawmakers would give the population centers a bigger voice in the Senate without stirring up opposition by taking seats away from Republicans.

But any attempt at reapportionment will be more than a struggle for power between Republicans and Democrats.

It boils down to a fight between urban and rural areas.

EAST AND WEST MICHIGAN SETTLED differences and reached agreement on a proposal to give special names to North-South highway routes in Michigan.

The Legislature passed a bill to designate US-131 from the Indiana border to Kalkaska as the Mackinac Trail; M-78 and M-66 from the border to Kalkaska as the Green Arrow Route, and US-131 from Kalkaska to the Mackinac Bridge as the Green Arrow Route-Mackinac Trail.

The highway designation proposals were among the first to be made in the 1959 Legislature. It took about six months to work out a compromise.

A bill to designate a West Michigan Mackinac Trail was defeated after East Michigan interests said it would not be historically accurate. The original Mackinac Trail used by Indians went forth from Saginaw.

The original Green Arrow proposal was threatened in the Senate, where backers of the Mackinac Trail bill said the state couldn't have one without the other.

But all differences were settled to enable passage of the package bill that combined the two designations.

All roads—including the Mackinac Trail and the Green Arrow—lead to the Mackinac Straits for Michigan sightseers.

The heavy Fourth of July influx indicated the Mackinac Bridge is still a major tourist attraction.

Ever since the Bridge was opened in November of 1957, the docks used by the Mackinac Straits ferries have been considered surplus property by the state.

But the Waterways Commission, which assumes jurisdiction over the docks under a bill cleared by both houses of the Legislature, said the docks have big potential.

The bill gives the commission supervision over docks at St. Ignace and Mackinaw City. The two communities would retain leases of portions of the docks for auto parking. The state would get a share of the parking receipts.

Commissioner director Keith Wilson said the Commission plans to spend about $100,000 improving the $4,500,000 docks, which have been deteriorating since the state ferry fleet was mothballed.

The Arnold Line and the Straits Transit Line, ferry lines to Mackinac Island, have been given leases to operate from the docks this summer.

The Straits Transit Line includes former state ferry workers who purchased one of the ferries for mainland-to-Mackinac Island service and tourist cruises.

his Matter Of Economy . . .

A great many people, in this era of super taxes and after-speech government spending believe, understandably enough, that Congress is largely made up of spendthrifts — men and women with a compulsive urge to spend as much of the taxpayers' money as possible. But an insider, writing in Nation's Business, presents a very different view. He is Charles E. Bennett, an economy-minded Representative from Florida with 10 years of Congressional service behind him. He sets the tone of his article with his incisive opening sentence: "Members of Congress are in a constant struggle to keep from becoming spendthrifts."

Two primary factors, Mr. Bennett has found, frustrate the Congressman who seeks economy. One is the fiscal practices within the government itself. The other is "the ironic pro-spending attitudes of much of the public." Both, he is convinced, can be corrected — and urgently need correcting if we are to avoid more inflationary deficits, and are to maintain both our economic and military strength.

It's true, of course, that the vast majority of people are in favor of economy — as a vague general principle. But when it comes down to specific matters in which they are interested a great change takes place. For instance, Mr. Bennett tells of his experience some years ago when the mail from his constituents expressed a fervent desire for economy. At that time a multimillion dollar bill was before the House. It had popular appeal, but Mr. Bennett felt that the appropriation was unnecessary and he voted against it. Then came the eluge — in the following weeks "scores of letters criticized my vote and not a single one recognized my action as a vote for economy." And this is a common, not an unusual, situation.

A major trouble, Mr. Bennett adds, is that "in the view of a large segment of the public, progress has become synonymous with more and larger federal programs and benefits. Each new program is excitingly and attractively presented. In the dazzle, the ultimate cost to the people in taxes is obscured." The federal government is deep in personal and local matters ranging under the categories of health, education and welfare. Then, once a federal program is started it is virtually assured of immortality. Mr. Bennett can recall only two programs that have been terminated during his long service. One had to do with the breeding of cavalry horses, and the other with rum-distilling in the Virgin Islands.

Mr. Bennett deals with "a sort of budgetary sleight of hand" which the Treasury practices, and which, in many instances, is used to finance programs while dodging annual Appropriations Committee review. This happens with some of the most expensive programs — housing and farm price supports among them.

grams — housing and farm price supports among them. He is convinced that steps must be taken to give Congress greater control over the handling of the purse strings.

He proposes a three-part program which would encourage and give aid and succor to the economy-minded people in Congress. First, economy efforts would be recognized through a system of "thrift ratings" and awards, to be handled by a private non-partisan organization of a calibre that would engage national respect and attention. Second, there should be more emphasis on pay-as-you-go principles whenever possible. Third, procedures should be tightened to provide better control of federal spending. For instance, the way money bills are now handled, on a piecemeal basis, "we never know whether more has been appropriated than there are revenues to pay the cost until the last bill is voted on."

Finally, Mr. Bennett is a firm supporter of the item veto, whereby the President could veto parts of appropriation bills without killing other parts. As matters stand now, it is whole hog or none — each bill must be signed or vetoed in its entirety. So the President must approve wasteful and undesirable legislation in order to save the essential.

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

July 23, 1936

Nearly one thousand graded, rural agricultural and township school districts in Michigan will be required to publish in a legally qualified newspaper, proceedings of their annual meetings and a financial statement of the year's business on or before August 3. Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Eugene B. Elliott calls attention to the fact that the financial statement must be more than a publication of totals, it must be a complete summary of the year's business. The purpose of this law is to give the people an exact dollar and cents picture of how their tax money is being spent, and also the financial condition of the districts at the time of the report. The Department of Public Instruction during the past year directed the distribution of thirty-five million dollars of State funds to the sixty-seven hundred school districts. This is an increase of thirteen million dollars over the year 1934. These published statements will show to what extent State aid has reduced local taxes.

Sam Gust, Don Charron, Alex Kochanowski and Don Kangas drove to Pontiac Sunday and spent the day. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harris of Wayne, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Vallad of Kalkaska were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Vallad.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson and children of Flint, and Carol

Sutton are encamped at Higgins Lake and also visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Roy McEvers and other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. William Christenson and daughter Fay and Jean Brady are encamped on the North Branch of the AuSable, where the former is doing some construction work. Mr. and Mrs. George Schaible enjoyed a visit Tuesday from the latter's cousin and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grant of Detroit, who were on their way to Mackinaw City. Miss Dorothy Wakeley and niece Jean Wakeley accompanied her sister, Mrs. Claude VanPatten to her home in Flint Sunday for a visit. Time to start planting flowers again, so here's a few details about the Fowler Garden Preservation System.

Youngsters used Dad Fowler's garden as a short cut to the playground. He had a tough time keeping them out until he started a new system.

He called the small fry together and had them print their names on cards. The cards were put on stakes near every clump of flowers. Right away, each kid began to root for "his" particular plants to come up first, voluntarily kept trees-passers off "his" area—and Dad's garden thrived!

From where I sit, there's a system for just about everything... even for getting along with people! The best one I know is tolerance. It means respecting your neighbor's preferences as well as your own.

For instance, I prefer an occasional glass of beer with dinner. You may like iced tea. If we accept each other's choice, we're on our way to making our friendship "flower."

Michigan drivers go 1st class!

For the new heavy-duty highways that count most... the choice is modern CONCRETE!

On important Michigan highways already completed... on others now building... on more still coming... concrete means tax savings and real dollar value

When you see a new concrete road—congratulate yourself on getting the best highway money can buy.

Michigan's newest concrete roads will last 50 years and more.

Even the older ones outlasted other pavements 2 to 1. Upkeep will run as much as 60% less than for asphalt! Remember, even on the new Interstate System, where Uncle Sam pays 90% of the price of the highway, Michigan pays for the upkeep—every red cent of it. With concrete the initial cost isn't just a down payment.

Don't forget that gliding smooth ride you get on modern concrete. And the extra safety, too. Mighty reassuring—that grainy, skid-resisting surface—when you have to stop in a hurry. At night, light-reflecting concrete lets you see—doesn't kill light the way black pavement does.

These are just some of the reasons why concrete's the choice for Michigan's first class highways—especially for the new Interstate System.
